

FOUNDATIONS

For Students Who Want to Study Architecture

At the University of California, Berkeley, you can study architecture from the very beginning. Our undergraduate program is designed to give you a strong foundation in the arts and sciences, as well as in the history and theory of architecture. You'll learn to think critically and creatively, and you'll gain the skills you need to succeed in your chosen field.

For more information, visit www.berkeley.edu/architecture